General practice

General/family medicine, paediatrics and childhood immunisations, mental health, preventive medicine and health screening, sexual health and travel immunisations.

David studied and qualified at Sheffield University in 1994. Originally from Edinburgh, he returned to Scotland and worked in various hospital posts as part of his GP training which included accident and emergency, paediatrics, obstetrics and gynaecology, psychiatry, ENT, ophthalmology and dermatology. He also worked in Australia and New Zealand gaining valuable experience in varied specialties.

David has worked as a private GP in Chelsea and South Kensington for the past 14 years developing a family based GP Practice. He has forged close links with many specialists during his career in London and is able to offer a holistic approach to all aspects of healthcare. He considers continuity of care to be particularly important and works full time.
